"In addition to sport, we have been able to show the world a modern and cultural Antequera"

Juan Rosas Gallardo

Sixth Vice-President of the Diputación de Málaga - Sports Delegation and First Deputy Mayor of Antequera

@juanrosasgallar

1- These days Antequera is the epicentre of world university handball sport.

It is a sporting event that Antequera could not miss. It is a high level world championship where you already know that a large number of international delegations have gathered, both male and female players. It has been a very intense week where apart from sport we have been able to show the world a modern and cultural Antequera. The young people have visited the main sites of the city, the Torcal, the Caminito del Rey and have been able to see our hospitality.

2- An event that is being a success and in which the collaboration between the administrations is being very important.

I would like to thank FISU, the Camilo José Cela University and the Consejo Superior de Deportes for trusting in Antequera for this event. We have previously organised several World and European Championships and we have a great team that knows how to organise this type of event. When they confirmed that we would host this championship we started to work and the result has been very good. All the institutions are very happy and so are the athletes.

3- An event that combines sport, discipline and healthy habits.

That is what sport is all about. Apart from being a competition, sport transmits many values such as solidarity, companionship, self-improvement... and university sport much more. In Antequera we always try to ensure that all the sporting competitions we organise shine with sporting values and that this is transmitted to the public.

4- This championship is being for Antequera a great showcase to the world.

We take advantage of sporting events as an instrument to promote our town. It is something we started since 2011 when our mayor first came to office and in that line we have been working to show Antequera to the world as a centenary, hospitable and world heritage city.

Pedro Montiel receives a tribute for his years dedicated to the promotion of university sport

Pedro Montiel, professor in the Department of Didactics of Languages, Arts and Sport, linked for 33 years to the management and direction of sport at the University of Málaga, was honoured on 27 June. The occasion was to recognise his career in the promotion of university sport, and the setting was the gala dinner organised by the International University Sports Federation (FISU) to entertain the delegations participating in the World University Championships Handball 2024 in Antequera.

The organisers, the mayor of Antequera and other authorities present, acknowledged "the important and tireless work of Montiel, supporting university sport and always ready to help anyone in need.

Pedro Montiel, who was very surprised and grateful for this recognition that "I did not expect", received a Spanish T-shirt with his name on it and the affection and applause of all those present.

At the end of the gala, a video was shown with Pedro Montiel as the protagonist, in which a photographic review was made of different moments of his professional career. World and European championships, meetings with international delegations, all with the same common denominator, his passion and dedication to university sport.

Spain - Poland and Spain - France, the men's and women's finals of the FISU World University Championship Handball (I)

The International University Sports Federation (FISU), in its role as organiser together with the Camilo José Cela University, has decided to change the timetable for the finals of the World Championships in the Fernando Argüelles Pavilion, scheduled for Sunday 30 June, with the intention of having the best possible atmosphere in the stands and receiving the support of the fans of this sport in the City of Los Dólmenes and nearby municipalities. The women's match will take place between Spain and France, starting at 10:00 and the men's match, between Spain and Poland, at 13:00. This will be followed by the medal ceremonies and the closing ceremony.

Spain knocks France out of the final and Poland wins a tight match against Czech Republic

The University Warriors have not lost their upward momentum in the tournament and have reached the final without losing a game and, moreover, giving the impression of a very solid defensive team that knows how to suffer and impose its individual talent when it comes to sending the ball into the back of the net. The players, coached by Diego Dorado, were very consistent from start to finish, knowing the difficulty of the match against a physical and intense opponent like France. A constant exchange of blows on the court until, in the second half, Spain stepped on the accelerator and broke the scoreboard to close a favourable score of 33-27.

In the other men's semi-final, the excitement and tension to find out the winner was maintained until the end of the match. Poland had a tough clash with the Czech Republic. Two teams that competed at a good level in the group phase to opt for the prize of advancing to the previous step to fight for the coveted gold medal. The score was very close and, as the minutes ticked by, neither side wanted to slip up, but the Poles proved more reliable than the Czechs and edged an evenly matched contest in their favour. The advantage was just one goal (30-29). Czech Republic and France will meet for the bronze medal.

Spain – Poland and Spain – France, the men's and women's finals of the FISU World University Championship Handball (II)

France beat Poland to confirm their place in the final and Spain do the same against the Czech Republic.

The University Warriors, meanwhile, faced a more straightforward match to reach the final. An almost perfect performance to quickly knock out the Czech Republic. A very solid defence to concede very few goals and an excellent performance by the two goalkeepers when they were on the court. In attack, collective play prevailed. Good shots from beyond 9 metres, connections with the pivot position and passes to the wingers to increase the lead to 13 goals: 27-14.

In the first semi-final, played in the Argüelles at 18:15, France entered the game with more pace and their opponents, Poland, found it difficult to counteract and soon found themselves with a disadvantage of several goals. It was not easy to reduce the deficit and they tried their best, but came up against a formidable French defence and a fast and accurate attack. Nothing changed in the second half, so all the French side had to do was to confirm a big lead to be in the most important match. Poland, on the other hand, will play for bronze and not finish fourth against the Czech Republic.

The battle for fifth, sixth and seventh place gets under way

On the sidelines of the day's top matches in the competition, six teams kicked off a triangular battle to determine which country would place fifth, sixth and seventh in both the men's and women's categories. Brazil's boys took on Chile's boys and edged them by a narrow 20-16 scoreline, while the Netherlands' natural-born players thrashed India's girls 52-23. Throughout the weekend, between the Pabellón Fernando Argüelles and the Agustín Rodríguez, all these matches will be played between those who could not place at the top in the group phase.
