COMPETITION DAY 6

The World University Handball Championship enters a decisive stage on its sixth day of competition. After the group-stage matches played throughout the week, the teams now move on to the quarter-finals.

This is a crucial day, as the winning teams will secure their place in the semi-finals and keep their hopes of claiming the world university title alive.

The losing teams, however, will remain in the competition and continue their campaign through the classification matches, which will determine the final rankings from 5th to 8th place.

As the tournament approaches its final stages, every match becomes increasingly important, with each team striving to achieve its objectives in the closing stretch of the championship.
